Cover Story

2021 New Taipei City Fine Arts Exhibition

The “New Taipei Fine Arts Exhibition” is one of the most respected art competition in Taiwan. Celebrating its 33rd event in 2021, the exhibition committee collected a large number of entries in the following categories: ink painting, Chinese calligraphy, nihonga, seal carving and sculpture (including sculptural mixed media). This year, the selection panel made further adjustments to the entry requirements for artwork scale, attracting the participation of more artists. In the end, 88 pieces of high quality artworks have made it to the final exhibition.

The selection panel is extremely impressed by the high standards demonstrated by all artists. The winners express their thoughts, emotion and life stories through creativity, innovation, and sophistication, as well as including reflections and sentiments of life scenarios which articulates meaningful statements and value through their practice.

Ink Painting Grand Prize: The Day of the Fallen

Inspired by Milton’s Paradise Lost, Lo Shang-yu switched the positions of characters, elevating the traditionally subordinate “her” character as the main focus. “She” falls, but decides to stay in the darkness, because she heard that “he” is also fallen in the dark. This is a choice made by her emotional attachments is still a choice made by her.

Sculpture Grand Prize: A Bath of Desire

This piece consists of a bathtub, several ceramic bottles and shards, cat litter, and a hanging light bulb. In one’s life, a ‘bathroom’ is a place where most wastes are created. However, the generation of all sanitary waste is an unavoidable requirement due to development of contemporary lifestyles. Guided by the dim lights, Xu Wen-ling wants us to focus on the discarded supplies, the cat litter gradually become gravel dust through time.

Nihonga Grand Prize: The Hazy Old Building

This piece created by Wu Pei-chi, focuses on the former City Council Building. Although the building does not have the same level of significance as The Luce Chapel or Taichung Park in Taichung, but it forms an integral part of daily life. The building exists not only in the physical environment, but also in the collective memory of the community.

Seal Carving Grand Prize: Reflection of the Yecaotang Studio

Zhang Tian-jian’s work comprises 20 pieces of delicate stone seals, each carrying a classic poem which he carved. These 20 poems, stemmed out from the epiphanic moment of his daily life, detail the artist’s personal journey through a year marked by silence. Thanks to the journey, the artist is now able to ‘make a toast to his old self’ and be content with the new.

Chinese Calligraphy Grand Prize: Couplet of Huating Temple

While this piece applies the Han Dynasty Clerical Script style, it is clear that Wu Qi-cong’s brushstrokes are influenced by other traditional writing styles as well, styles such as Oracle Bone and Bronze Inscription, Seal Script and Bamboo-Manuscript. All characters demonstrate exceptional mastery in the finishing, stroke-crossing, lining, juxtaposing and mingling of the Chinese calligraphy. Through the borrowing of other traditional schools, Wu has demonstrated to us a brand new approach to the art of calligraphy.

Enlighten Fantasia: 2021 Lighting Arts Exhibition

In 2020, the Lin’s Family Mansion and Garden (listed as national heritage) launched “Sleepless in the Moonlight,” a projection mapping light show that incorporates with the traditional theater. In October, as part of the New Taipei Cultural Affairs Bureau “The Metro Village” project, the Garden will showcase the “2021 Lighting Arts Exhibition.” With all the onsite installation works, we will create a “fantasia” in our beautiful garden through the elements of light, mapping and sound.

“Enlighten Fantasia” is a crossover between new multimedia, artistic lighting and modern technology. The motion sensing interactive installations combines architectural elements of the Evergreen Pavilion and the Good Harvest Salon. Moreover, you can appreciate the kinetic sculpture at the Jade Pavilion and be immersed in the light play at the Square Seal Library. Through the collaboration between traditional architecture and modern technology, we are recreating the landscape of contemporary arts.

We also need your help to solve the mysteries in the Garden. In our “Exclusive Real Escape Game” activity, you will participate in the banquet of the Lin family and find out the answers to all unsolved mysteries. Their exquisite taste and luxurious lifestyle will dazzle you.

New Taipei City Military Village Cultural Festival: Remembrance of the Village Era

Military villages evoke a strong sense of nostalgia, bringing out the collective memory of low-rise residences and bamboo fence, embellished by small talks and laughter in the neighborhood. Military villages were also enriched by endless smells, of cooking, flowers and smoked sweet pork sausages. The signatory flavors and taste of Sichuan, Huanan, Canton and Fukien dishes were reassembled and reinvented through the magic and creativity of village women. This year, the Cultural Festival recreates the sensory lure of the unique military village dishes. Through the “Village Womanpower” exhibition, we would also like to pay tribute to the hardworking and tireless creators of all the magical taste and flavor – the women of the military villages.

On October 9, we are transforming the Sanchong Air Force Military kindred Village

No. 1 into an immersive theater. Our team from the Chungyu University of Film and Arts have created a musical specifically for the setting of the Village, exploring our deep connection and nostalgia for “home.” Blood relations connect family members with memories and with the longing to “come home.” The “migrants,” who came from all parts of China in 1949 with their homesickness, have rooted themselves in Taiwan, becoming an essential part of the Taiwanese community.

We have created a unique online photo gallery, showcasing the precious historic photos shared by the community. Other online programs include the military village cooking class, village dialects and “historically chic” beauty pageants. Don’t forget to check “Sanchong Air Force Military kindred Village No. 1” Facebook page to find out more.
